

Over 400 civil servants were trained by NAC officers in one week. The national campaign "Integrity for a Safe Society" reached the Balti and Glodeni Police Inspectorates

Over 400 employees from public institutions strengthened their integrity skills, participating in eight training sessions organized by officers of the National Anti-corruption Centre (NAC). The discussions focused on promoting integrity, preventing corruption risks and confidential reporting of irregularities through anti-corruption lines.

The NAC continues its collaboration with the Ministry of Internal Affairs (MIA), by implementing the national campaign "Integrity for a Safe Society". This week, officers from the Center's Anti-corruption Education Directorate arrived at the Glodeni Police Inspectorate and the Balti Police Inspectorate, consolidating the organizational culture within the public order and security structures.

Trainings also took place at the Institute of Physical Education and Sports of the Moldova State University, the National Office for Regional and Local Development, the Balti Customs Office, the National Institute of Public Administration and Management, etc. Participants were familiarized with the cultivation of an institutional climate of integrity, by implementing and applying measures to ensure integrity in the public sector, the functionality of the National Anti-corruption Line and the Specialized Anti-corruption Line, essential mechanisms for the confidential and responsible reporting of acts of corruption, related facts and other illegal practices.

The National Anti-corruption Centre reiterates that all actions dedicated to preventing corruption are aimed at cultivating a solid climate of integrity, by promoting anti-corruption policies and responsible professional conduct.
