

Over 360 people attended anti-corruption trainings organized by the NAC in Chisinau and Cimişlia

Over 360 people were trained by officers of the National Anti-corruption Centre (NAC) on integrity standards, during six sessions held this week. Beneficiaries include students, teachers, civil servants, military personnel and personnel from the penitentiary system.

The NAC continued the “Integrity and Honor in the Service of the Homeland” campaign, carried out in partnership with the Ministry of Defence. The trainings were conducted for employees of the 2nd Motorized Infantry Brigade and the Military Centres in the municipality of Chisinau, addressing integrity policies, control mechanisms in the public sector and the consequences of corruption acts.

Information sessions were organized for employees of the National Auto Transport Agency (ANTA) and the National Centre for Forensic Expertise. The focus was on strengthening institutional integrity, preventing risks and promoting professional ethical standards.

In the Cimişlia district, the NAC officers and anti-corruption volunteers carried out activities for high school principals (at the initiative of the Cimişlia General Education Directorate) and for students of the Mihai Eminescu High School. In addition to discussions on transparency and accountability, young people participated in the “Pro-Integrity Quiz”, an interactive knowledge-testing activity.

The NAC’s Anti-corruption Education Directorate provided professional training for employees within the Training Centre of the National Penitentiary Administration, contributing to the development of a climate based on ethics and integrity.

The National Anti-corruption Centre continues its training and awareness-raising activities, with a view to strengthening a climate of integrity in public institutions.
