

Around 500 People trained by the NAC in Chişinău and Bălţi, including employees of S.A."Chişinău-Gaz", the State Tax Service, and the Public Health Centre

This week, 476 individuals were trained by officers of the National Anti-corruption Centre (NAC) across nine integrity-focused sessions. The activities brought together representatives from both the public and private sectors in Chişinău and Bălţi.

During the sessions organized for employees of S.A."Chişinău-Gaz"., the NAC experts addressed professional integrity and workplace corruption risks. Discussions centered on adhering to professional ethics, avoiding conflicts of interest, and utilizing mechanisms to report misconduct and acts of corruption.

For staff of the State Tax Service in Bălţi, the training focused on professional integrity in tax administration. Participants examined corruption risks arising from interactions with taxpayers, highlighting the imperative of upholding legality, impartiality, and transparency.

A similar training was held for the personnel of the Bălţi Public Health Centre and its affiliated districts. Discussions focused on strengthening integrity in the healthcare sector, individual accountability, and the timely reporting of corrupt practices.

Additionally, in partnership with the National Institute of Administration and Public Management (INAMP), officers from the NAC Anti-corruption Education Directorate served as trainers in sessions dedicated to integrity standards and ethical conduct throughout the public administration.

The National Anti-corruption Centre continues its training and awareness-raising activities to foster a culture of integrity across both the public and private sectors.
