

The NAC continues anti-corruption activities and launches a new national campaign "No Corruption at BAC Exams"

This week, the National Anti-corruption Centre continued its anti-corruption education activities and promotion of integrity in the public sector, through training and information campaigns organized in several regions of the country. A special emphasis is placed during this period on the launch of the national campaign "No Corruption at BAC Exams", carried out in partnership with the Ministry of Education and Research of the Republic of Moldova and the National Agency for Curriculum and Evaluation, aiming to prevent corruption and promote integrity in the process of national baccalaureate exams.

The campaign follows the actions carried out by the NAC in recent years in educational institutions across the country, where thousands of students, teachers and educational managers participated in information sessions on integrity requirements, legal liability for acts of corruption and compliance with rules during exams. In previous editions of the campaign, the NAC officers organized trainings in dozens of high schools, informing over 4,000 graduates and hundreds of teachers about the consequences of exam fraud and the ways to report corruption attempts.

In the current edition, the NAC representatives will conduct information sessions for students, teachers, presidents and secretaries of BAC centres, emphasizing the importance of fairness, transparency and accountability in organizing and conducting exams. Participants will be informed about the legal regime of conflicts of interest, the prohibition of accepting gifts or improper influences, as well as the possibility of reporting corruption cases to the National Anti-corruption Line 0800 55555.

At the same time, as part of the "Integrity and Honor in the Service of the Homeland" campaign, carried out in partnership with the Ministry of Defence of the Republic of Moldova, information activities were organized in military structures in Florești, Soroca and Cahul districts, with the aim of promoting discipline and professional responsibility.

Also, as part of the "Integrity for Health" campaign, the NAC officers and anti-corruption volunteers held discussions with medical personnel from the Health Centres in Donduşeni and Sorooca on preventing corruption and strengthening transparency in the medical system.

In parallel, the NAC officers and anti-corruption volunteers organized educational sessions and the interactive quiz " Pro-Integrity Quiz " at Ion Luca Caragiale High School, with the active participation of students.

Information activities on professional ethics and integrity norms were also carried out within the Probation Offices in the Central region, and the NAC representatives participated, as trainers, in sessions organized by the National Institute of Public Administration.

Through these actions, the NAC continues its anti-corruption prevention and education campaigns, promoting a culture of integrity among public institutions, young people and the entire society.
